

Albane Gayon joins Extens as Operating Director, to support its portfolio companies in their value creation

Paris, May 25, 2023 – Extens, the investment fund specialising in healthcare software and data, announces the arrival of Albane Gayon as Operating Director, to support the growth of its portfolio companies. Her arrival is part of a consolidation effort, as the team is currently deploying Extens III, with a desire for Extens to help its investments accelerate their development.

With height years in consulting in the healthcare sector and three as Director of Strategy in a large group, Albane will structure and strengthen the strategic and operational support provided to the portfolio companies. One of her missions will be to manage the Extens Clubs, which bring together managers, CTOs, CFOs, and CSOs in communities of peers to address their issues and share their solutions.

Albane Gayon (Audencia Business School) began her career in 2011 in consulting in the health sector, then joined IQVIA (formerly IMS Health), a data, technology, and services company in the health sector, as Manager and then Principal in the Consulting division. She led strategy, organization, and change management missions for pharmaceutical companies and health institutions. She then spent three years as Chief of Staff to the President and Director of Strategy at IQVIA France, in charge of transformation, external growth, and operational excellence.

Albane Gayon comments: "It is with great enthusiasm that I join Extens! The fund's sector positioning, focused on the digitalization of the healthcare system, is unique and echoes my own experience.

I am particularly attracted by Extens' desire to strengthen and professionalize the strategic and operational support offered to portfolio companies and to get involved with their managers. Having the capacity to be present at their side in phases of transformation is key and very complementary to financial support."

The arrival of Albane, who will work alongside Arnaud Houette and Cédric Berger, is the second recruitment for 2023 after the incorporation of Thomas Ploquin in investor relations.

Arnaud Houette and Quentin Jacomet, Managing Partners, comment: "We are really excited to welcome Albane to Extens. Her experience will enable us to bolster the substantial support to the software publishers in the portfolio and aim for outstanding performance."
